

INSTITUTIONAL BEST PRACTICES

BEST PRACTICE-1

1. Title of the practice: Conduction of Students Counseling

2. Objectives of the practice:

The foremost objective of counseling is to bring about a voluntary transformation in the student's life. Counseling aims to aid people to overcome their direct problems and also to prepare them to face upcoming problems. Academic development, career growth and personal or social development are the key goals of the college guidance and counseling programs mainly. Encouraging learners' academic, communal, emotional as well as personal growth. To gather information about apprentice which will be of support in solving his/her problems is another major objective of counseling.

3. The context:

Many parents thrive their children's would get into an engineering college either by force or by money. Some iron minded passing through the gates easily. But many students face difficulty and there is a need for counseling for engineering students. You will think about whether or not there is someone who will speak to you and listen to your experience while not judging you or interfering, like a counselor, therapist or different kind of supportive person. Hence counselling system will help the students and parents to enhance the relationship between the college and parents.

4. The Practice:

Students Counseling is organized twice or thrice in a semester. Each faculty member is assigned 15 to 20 students for counseling. A separate counseling book is maintained for each and every student. The procedure for counseling is as follows:

- (i) A circular is issued from the principal for organizing the students counseling on a particular date and at particular time.
- (ii) The students related to particular counselor will meet with their counselor during the allotted time.
- (iii) The counselor will counsel the students one by one with subject to particular points of counseling.
- (iv) The counselor will note down the issues and problems that are facing by the students.
- (v) The counselor will submit the report on the counseling to the head of the department.
- (vi) The head of the department will then discuss with principal for solving the issues and problems.

5. Evidence of success:

On monitoring the students counseling process, the following observations were made:

- (i) A remarkable change in the student's performance was observed.
- (ii) The gap between the parents and students was reduced. Many of the parents encouraging the counseling process.
- (iii) The problems that were faced by the students were addressed up to maximum extent.

- (iv) Student's attendance percentage and academic pass percentages were improved.
- (v) Even personal problems faced by some of the students were addressed.

6. Problems encountered and resources required:

The time management is a major concern as lot of academic and non academic activities are going in parallel. Sometimes faculty members feel additional burden and find it difficult to find time for such additional work. Counseling books are required for each and every student.

BEST PRACTICE-2

1. Title of the practice: English Speaking Clubs(ESC)

2. Objectives of the practice:

- (i) The primary objectives of English Speaking Clubs (ESC) are communicating and practicing English. English speaking club activities are reading, writing, listening, speaking and critical thinking; however, the focus of English clubs is on practicing oral language skills.
- (ii) To make the students feel confident and comfortable using English language.
- (iii) To provide the students a casual platform to speak English confidently.
- (iv) To overcome the fear of English language among the students.
- (v) To enrich the students' English vocabulary.

3. The context:

For many students speaking in English is the most difficult part of the language to master. To improve the speaking skills, the student need to be able to practice with other English learner or English speakers. One way to do this is by joining the English Speaking Club(ESC). There are many reasons why English Speaking clubs can help students improve their English. The most important reason is that they offer learners a chance to practice English by actually speaking it.

4. The Practice:

The following are the guidelines and practices for English Speaking Clubs:

- (i) Every department should form "English Speaking Clubs".
- (ii) Each group consists 8 to 10 number of students, where the group lead by two students who are good at English.
- (iii) The English speaking club leaders are designated as president and secretary, who are responsible for document all the activities conducted by them.
- (iv) The leaders of each club will motivate their club members to speak in English and participate in the events like Group discussion, Role play, Skit/Puzzle games, Debate on current affairs, Presentation on latest technologies, Innovative ideas on Entrepreneurship, Introduction of new words, etc.

- (v) The club members speak only in English among themselves, with other group members and faculty members.
- (vi) All the English Speaking Club leaders should form "English speaking leaders" where they have to share new and innovative ideas to run their individual clubs successfully in the presence of the principal, TPO and entrusted faculty members.
- (vii) Heads of the various departments will initiate the process of forming English speaking clubs based on the total number of students exist in the each class for I Year, II Year, III Year and IV Year.
- (viii) Heads of the various departments will entrust one faculty member to monitor and guide 2 to 3 English clubs.
- (ix) The faculty should submit report twice in a month on English speaking clubs to the principal.

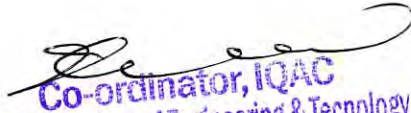

5. Evidence of success:

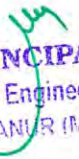

On monitoring the English Speaking Clubs, the following observations were made:

- (i) Many of the students were actively involved in the club activities.
- (ii) Some of the students having background of local language upto 12th class are now able to speak in English fluently.
- (iii) As many of our college students are related to rural background, the clubs helped a lot for them to improve their vocabulary and English speaking.

6. Problems encountered and resources required:

- (i) The principal, heads of various departments, TPO and entrusted faculty members should make efforts to sustain English Speaking Clubs.
- (ii) Some of the students were not showing interest to participate in club activities due to fearness.
- (iii) Additional class rooms are required to run the activities under the club.
